Major HENRY ROSE.

SIR,
In the dissention existing among the Rifle Company, it has been my wish to avoid, if possible, publicly implicating the Field Officers of the regiment, though I long have been fully satisfied the commotion was indirectly sanctioned and encouraged, to answer particular purposes. But when a Major publicly avows himself, and propagates principles which tend to nourish the flame, instead of endeavouring to extinguish it, then it becomes necessary to treat him as a partizan. This will account to you for my treatment to you on Monday evening last.

The motion which you, Sir, brought before the Legionary Court, and your attempt to palm upon the court a law which you knew to be inapplicable, though supported by the Colonel, would have been suffered to pass unnoticed, had you not used your influence and opinion as a citizen to the injury of my command. You justify your opposition and conduct, on the plea of my wanting the original roll, the neglect of certificates being issued to the men, and the opposition or state of the company. These are indeed specious grounds for opposition. You certainly do not, or rather wish not, to remember my demand of the roll of Capt. Turner, and the rejection of my application to that effect by the Board, on the principle that as Capt. Turner had resigned, the Board had no power to demand. How the opinion that the signatures of the men was essential to their enrollment, or that the want of certificates was an exonerator, could be gleaned from the law, I cannot discover. The words of the law are, "after referring to the battalion companies." "Until he shall have equipped himself for service in such volunteer company, according to law, and shall have produced a certificate thereof from the commanding officer of such company, to the commanding officer of the battalion company to which he did or might belong." Thus it appears that uniforming, according to law, comprises the enrollment, and the certificate a mere exonerator or exemption from duty in the battalion companies, and that the want of it can by no means affect the enrollment, as it could at any succeeding period be granted, and the member enrolled in a battalion company be demanded. Why has not the principle been adduced sooner? Why now, after a lapse of nearly three years, make it a plea to annul the corps, when this very corps, without certificates, has been discharged from battalion companies, though enrolled thereon in the spring enrollments, on the word of the Captain. If it was essential to the existence of the company, it became the duty of the Major of the second battalion, from his oath, either to have abrogated the corps, or to have attended to their being issued. The oath runs thus: "I swear I will discharge my duty to the best of my skill and judgment." All I ask or demand is, that measure which has been measured to others, and you are bound by the oath that is administered at the Battalion and Legionary Courts to grant it. The oath—"I will truly and faithfully enquire into all delinquencies, which appear on the returns before me, and will assess the fines thereon without favor, partiality or affection." Under the command of Capt. Turner the Rifle Corps, without certificates, has been exonerated from battalion duty, and since his resignation you have received and accredited me as their officer, and admitted the excuse of being riflemen. Under such circumstances how the Field Officers can reconcile their points of opposition I cannot perceive—however it may be palliated, the public must discover party views.

With respect to the state of the company I would have supposed it was a subject too delicate for a Major in your situation. I grant the existence of opposition, but not to that extent you would wish it to be received. I have numbers in that company who are ready, if left to choice, to discharge duty under me.

As an officer I know my duty and can discharge it. This is more than you can boast of, though a Major.—The man who aspires to a command to which he is inadequate, discovers both his weakness and ambition. That you are inadequate to your command I hesitate not a moment to assert; for I have seen you, when ordered shoulder, bring your gun to the right shoulder, instead of the left. If this is knowledge of discipline, then you are indeed a Major.

Since I have embarked against my will in the public print, you may, if you please, present my highest consideration to Colonel Frank, and inform him though I have but little cash to appropriate to such purposes, and am well aware of his intentions to avail himself of the Libel Act, yet, if irritated too far, I shall venture the consequence so far as truth will justify.

William H. Harper.

FROM THE REPERTORY.

THE CHRONICLE.

No. III.

Having been favoured with many additional names to our list since we began this subject, it may not be amiss to recapitulate a few particulars.

We have indulged in confidence that among those who rank themselves with democrats, there are many, who would withdraw that implicit faith from the Chronicle, did they know that the opinions of men, and measures which they derive from that paper are detailed to them by a foreign Vagabond; a being who has lately arrived in our country from England, loaded as he himself has declared with disgrace, having "fallen into public disgrace and contempt among all his neighbours, and other good and worthy subjects of that realm." These are his very words.

Mr. Gifford, an author whose writings do immortal honor to the country which gave him birth, with some apology for stooping to so vile an object as Anthony Pasquin, turned the attention of his countrymen to this corrupter of morals, this open reviler of religion. Mr. Gifford's bookseller was prosecuted by Pasquin, and as that trial shows how little the powerful Erskine could say in favor of so abandoned a client, and what indignation was excited in the court on the development of his character, we have thought proper to republish it.

When we have concluded, it will appear, that a man who by unprincipled and disgraceful conduct, by devoting his hireling pen to any and every bad purpose, had plunged himself into that wretched situation, in which his best and nearest friend shunned and forsook him, he wandered across the Atlantic, and is received and supported in the Chronicle office, to form the minds, prescribe the morals, and dictate the politics of credulous Americans. Such is our pride! Such our independence!

We shall now continue and conclude the declaration of Anthony Pasquin in court.

"And the said John further saith, that the said Robert further contriving and intending to injure and damnify the said John, falsely, wickedly, wrongfully, unjustly and maliciously published a certain other false, scandalous, defamatory and malicious libel of and concerning the said John, in the way of his said profession as an author, in substance and to the effect following, that is to say,

"TO ANTHONY PASQUIN, Esq."

(meaning the said John.)

"Why dost thou tack, most simple Anthony, (again meaning the said John) the name of Pasquin to the ribbald strains? (thereby meaning that the strains of the said John were low and licentious.) Is it a fetch of wit, to let us see, thou, (again meaning the said John) like that statue art devoid of brains? (meaning the said John was without brains, like a statue.) But thou, (again meaning the said John) mistak'st: for know, though Pasquin's head be full as hard and near as thick, as thine; (meaning the head of the said John) yet has the world admiring on it read, Many a keen gibe, and many a sportive line:—While nothing from thy Jolbernawl, (again meaning the head of the said John) can spring but impudence and filth; for out, alas! Do what we will 'tis still the same vile thing. Within all brick dust, and without all brass. (Meaning that the said John had brick-dust for brains.)

"Then blot the name of Pasquin from thy page: (meaning the page of the said John) thou seest it will not thy poor raff (meaning the compositions and publications of the said John) sell. Some other (meaning some other name than that of Pasquin) wouldst thou (again meaning the said John) take, I dare engage, John Williams or Tom Fool will do as well. (Thereby meaning and insinuating not only that said John was a man of small abilities, but also, that his publications were of an insignificant nature, and on that account neglected by the public.)

"And the said John further saith, that the said Robert further contriving and intending to injure and damnify the said John as aforesaid, afterwards to wit, on the day and year aforesaid, at Westminster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, falsely, wickedly, wrongfully, unjustly, and maliciously published certain other false, scandalous, defamatory and malicious libel of and concerning the said John, in substance and to the effect following, that is to say, the profligate cowards who employ Anthony (meaning the said John) whose acquaintance is infamy and whose touch is poison. (Thereby meaning that the character of the said John was so degraded and depraved, that it was infamous and dangerous to be acquainted with him.)

By means of publishing of which said several false, scandalous, defamatory, and malicious libels, herein before mentioned to have been published by the said Robert, he, the said John, was, hath been, and is not only greatly hurt, injured and prejudiced in his good name, family, credit, and reputation as a man, but also in his character and reputation as an author, and is fallen into disgrace and contempt amongst all his neighbors, and other good and worthy subjects of this realm, inasmuch that divers of those neighbors and subjects have, on occasion of the publication of the said several false, scandalous and defamatory libels, so vehemently suspected the said John to have been, and to be, a person of immoral and infamous character, that they have, on that account, refused, and still do daily more and more refuse, to have any commerce, connection, acquaintance or discourse with him, as before they were used and accustomed to do, and would still have done, had not those false, scandalous and defamatory libels been so published as aforesaid; and also by reason and means of the premises aforesaid, he, the said John, was, hath been, and is greatly injured and damnified, as well in the way of his said profession of an author, as otherwise, to wit, at Westminster aforesaid, in the county aforesaid, to the damage of the said John, of one thousand pounds, and therefore he brings his suit.

Counsel for John Williams:

LONDON, July 25.

BONAPARTE and the POPE.

Letters from Italy brought by the Gottenburgh mails of yesterday, relate the progress of Bonaparte's negotiation with the Pope, or rather his requisition of his holiness to perform the Revolutionary Coronation Ceremony. Upon Cardinal Feshe's first mentioning this subject, Pius VII. referred it to the Sacred College of Cardinals, who except Feshe, were unanimous in their advice to their Sovereign to decline it as no such act has been performed by a Sovereign Pontiff, for seven centuries; and it would offend the House of Austria, as Pius VI. in 1790, refused the same demand made by Leopold II. the father of the present Emperor of Germany. Informed of this answer, Bonaparte wrote a letter with his own hand in the most abusive language, and threatening style, telling the Pope "that he owed to him alone and to his moderation, both the temporal & spiritual power enjoyed by his Holiness. That it was an insult to his glory, and to the high dignity the great nation had conferred on him, only to hesitate; and that as he had made Frenchmen again Christians, so he would be able to make them Musselmans, should the ungrateful conduct, superstitious scruples, or pusillanimous fears of his Holiness force him to such an act." In return, Pius VII. offered to give full powers to Cardinal Feshe, to perform on his part and in his name, the coronation ceremony: a letter of recommendation from Madame Bonaparte, the soi-disant Emperor's mother, accompanied this answer. It had however no other effect than to enrage her son the more. Who wrote to the pope these few words: "We desire the Holy Father to choose between a retreat to the Convent, or a journey to France."

NAPOLEON.

Copies of these transactions and letters are handed about, all over Italy. It is said that the Pope has demanded the mediation of Austria, and even offered to resign; but that his holiness has been advised, for the peace of the church, to submit to the circumstances of the times. General Charpentier has therefore been sent to Rome to escort the Pope to France; a journey which the Italians compare to that of his unfortunate predecessor, Pius VI. who after suffering so many indignities, at last died a victim of republican ferocity, in a French dungeon.

SPAIN.

There appears no prospect of a rupture between Great Britain and the Government having no sail for a year to come.

The vessel amounted to Captain M. W. and, by the schooner, that twenty from Cape Fran as a reinforcement Domingo.

NEW-YORK, September 17.

Captain John Maswaring, of the brig Exchange who arrived at Boston on Sunday at night from Bordeaux, informs that on his passage to the island of St. Thomas he was captured and sent into Tortola by the armed schooner Colpoys, on the 17th of April, 1804, for adjudication, and detained there three months and ten days.
Her cargo amounting to thirty one thousand dollars, was condemned, and the vessel liberated by paying all expenses. Her cargo belonged to the house of M'Gall and Co. of Philadelphia. At the same time the brig Samuel, captain Evans of Philadelphia, was captured and sent to Tortola.
On examination by her papers it appeared that the captain had received a letter from Martineco, with a box marked "Noyeau," with particular orders to deliver it immediately on his arrival. On critical examination the box was found to be letters from the governor of Martinico, with dispatches to the French government, stating that the Island was so closely blockaded by the English, that no vessel could scarcely get a supply. The letters were dispatched to Antigua, and directed to Judge Byram.
Orders were sent back to detain her for trial. The vessel and cargo were condemned amounting to forty thousand dollars.
Captain M. was informed at Turks Island, by the schooner Polly, captain E. Ya-ron, that twenty thousand men marched from Cape Francois, on the 1st of August as a reinforcement against the city of St.
Domingo.

Translated from a Guadeloupe paper of the 18th August, 1804.

REPORT.

Of the affray which has taken place in the night of the 13th to the 14th of August between the sloop of war the Lilly, prize to the French privateer La Dame Ambert, and anchored in the Road of the Saints, under the command of capt.
Lapointe, and five barges armed with 120 men, from the British frigate Galatea, in an attempt to cut away said sloop of war.

The English frigate Galatea upon being informed that the sloop of war Lilly was at the Saints with very few men on board sent in the night of the 13th to the 14th, her boats to attempt carrying her off. They approached near enough to perceive that there was a detachment of troops of the line on board; and seeing that this vessel kept a good look out, they retired at day break.

On the next day, 16th at dusk, the same frigate came up the channel and approached the batteries. The commandant Madier caused some cannon shot to be fired at her, and sent off two bombs, one of which having burst in the air cut some of her rigging.— From her coming so near in shore, it was conjectured that the enemy had some projects for the night. 30 men of the 15th and 66th of the line, commanded by Lieut.
Mouret were put on board the Lilly. The posts had information of what was going on; captain Lapointe made his dispositions and the commandant Madier, ordered that the more to deceive the enemy; the land and sea sounds should be done with the least noise; and especially that the word full-watch should not be called aloud. Accordingly, at two in the morning five English brigs entered the road and rowed to the Lilly. Captain Lapointe fired a broadside at them, and the troops of the line discharged their musquetry; and notwithstanding all the efforts of the English they could not succeed in boarding; they were vigorously repulsed on every side. They had two barges sunk, one taken, and the two others having lost almost all their men, had surrendered; but the commandant Madier having no shallops at his disposal could not send people on board to man them. The cannots drove them from the shore, & the breeze enabled them to get off, not however without sustaining the fire of the batteries of Plislet.

The loss of the enemy is estimated at 60 men, among whom is a lieutenant, killed on board, in whose pocket has been found a list of the men ordered for this expedition.

On board of the barge that was taken were found a lieutenant having his arm much fractured, a midshipman and seven seamen, four of them killed and twelve wounded.

On our side we have lost a sergeant of the 13th of the line, two chasseurs of the 66th, and a seaman,

Captain Lapointe has been grievously wounded by two shots; one in the shoulder, & the other in the breast, lieutenant Mou-ret, officer of the 15th of the line commanding the detachment of infantry has been slightly wounded.

In the course of the morning were found at Plislet and at Tere de Bas, pieces of the wreck of the two sunken barges, the radder of a large shallop, ten oars, and several dead bodies.

A neutral schooner which anchored at the Saints the same day, reports that she was visited by the English frigate, Galatea which had no other embarkation but a small boat, manned with one seaman and four cabin boys, and that the captain of the frigate requested him to pick up those of his crew whom he might meet with off the Saintes. It appears that two of the last barges have not been able to get back to the frigate.

Such are the outlines of the facts contained in the report of the 26 Thermidor year 12 (17th August)

(Signed,) The Chief of battalion, Commander of the Saintes.

MADIER.

IMPORTANT!

Our last accounts from Europe, by the way of London, gave us information of the extreme probability of a Continental War; at least that the Emperor of Russia and the King of Sweden, had shown a disposition indicatory of an intention of shortly commencing hostilities against France.

In confirmation of this news, we have received the following important particulars of movements in Russia, received from capt. Hiller, of the ship Geutunio, arrived here last evening in a short passage from Cronstadt.

On the 14th of July, the day on which capt. Hiller sailed, the Russian fleet of eleven sail of the line and four frigates, were ready for sea—and he was informed that day by an officer of one of the ships of the line, whom he supposed to be a native of England, and whom he saw on shore, that general orders had just been read in the fleet, that they were to sail with all possible expedition, to join the British. From this circumstance, together with that of a more rigid discipline among the Russian troops, there was but little doubt of their being speedily called into service.

The Emperor of Russia, in a peculiar degree, was personally attentive to Americans. It was no uncommon thing for him to seek opportunities to speak to the commanders of American vessels: and that he paid the utmost attention to Mr. Harris, the American Consul at that place, who was highly gratified at the signal honor conferred on his nation.

Capt. Hiller is the bearer of dispatches from Mr. Harris to our government.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17.

Arrived, brig Betsey, 27 days from Kingston, (Jam.) Left there 24th Aug.
Ship Phoenix. —, of Baltimore, which had in a hurricane on the 19th, lost both her anchors and was driven ashore, but received no other damage of consequence.
The schr. John, Bunker, sailed 12 days before the Betsey. The hurricane of the 18th ult. had done much mischief on the eastern coast of Jamaica, but capt. C. could not learn any of the particulars. Aug. 31 was boarded by a French privateer, who took all their cabin stores; same day fell in with schr. Mary, Oliver, from Jamaica, bound to Wilmington, N. C. The Mary on the 19th, in lat. 19, long. 40, experienced the same gale, which carried away her masts, boars, cambooses, and one man; in this condition they remained 12 days, when they were taken off by capt. Chatfield. Same day, spoke brig Juno, from Newburyport, bound to Havana. Same day, schr. Harmony, Medlin, bound to Philadelphia. Sept. 13th, spoke brig Clarissa, from Lucia (Jam.) bound to Philadelphia. 14th, discovered a vessel, bottom up, hoisted out the boat and went along-side, she proved to be the schr. Patient Sally, of Salem.

September 18.

A gentleman who arrived yesterday from N. Carolina, reports, that a schr. bound from Charleston to Baltimore, with 60 pipes of brandy on board, was cast away on Ocricock Bar in the gale of the 8th inst.—a passenger on board was lost, the remainder of the people saved.

Arrived, Bremen barque Aeolus, Hendrickson, 70 days from Varel. Left there 3d July, a Boston brig taking in for Baltimore. Sailed in company with ships Wes-ser, with passengers; and the Olibaum, for Baltimore. Spoke the Weser 5th July, off the Texel, and the Olibaum on the 19th, in lat. 47, long. 11.

A few days ago, a Quaker being brought before a justice of the peace at Huddersfield, on account of some religious scruple, the magistrate, with a voice raised several keys above its usual tone, cried, "Well, I understand thou art a Quaker." "I am," replied the friend, "and what hast thou to say against that?" The justice, with his wonted sagacity, and forgetting the extensive meaning of the word AD, observed, "I have only to say, that if ALL men were Quakers, Bonaparte might come and slaughter us as soon as he pleased."—"Nay," answered the man of peace, "thou'rt mistaken, friend, for if ALL men were Quakers, then would Bonaparte be one also, and if he were, I am sure he would kill no man!" [Lon. pap.]

From the (Balt.) AMERICAN.

On Saturday last was committed to jail, by Mr. Duncan, on respectable testimony, Peter Dashiell, aged 15 years, for the supposed murder of Benjamin Brown, aged 11 years, by stabbing him in the groin, which occasioned his death half an hour after the act was perpetrated.

We have been favored with minutes of the examination, of which the following is a copy.

The prisoner being interrogated declared his innocence, and that he never had a quarrel with the deceased; that he was in in Mr. Hewitt's yard when he heard the deceased cry out; he then ran and informed Mr. Hewitt that Ben was stabbed, and went up stairs and endeavoured to prevent a boy that was there, going to see the boy, as he said the people might suspect him as guilty of the crime.

Philip Brown examined.

He worked with Mr. Hewitt, along with the deceased, and the prisoner was no relation of the deceased. The prisoner came running into the shop immediately after the boy was stabbed, confused and crying, and told him Ben was stabbed; and he seized him by the arm, and he struggled and got away from him. On being interrogated, he said that the prisoner and the deceased had a quarrel and were to have had a fight.

Eli Hewitt.

The prisoner ran into him and informed him that Ben was stabbed. While he was telling him the deceased came to the door and fell, and Peter ran up stairs. Mr. H. took the boy in his arms, who was insensible, and shook him asking him who injured him, but he could not articulate. He then sent for medical aid, &c.

Conrad Reinicker.

Being at his stable door about thirty yards from where the boy was stabbed; he heard a scream and saw a boy run down the alley and the wounded boy pointing after him. The boy turned the corner and he lost sight of him. Saw Mr. Hewitt's negro woman run after the boy, but could not see any boy when she came to the corner. No boy in the alley but the wounded boy and the boy that ran from him, nor no boy in sight of him in any direction.

The same testimony was given by a boy of Mr. Reinicker.

The prisoner wished Henry Roberts to be called, who could give no kind of evidence, except hearsay.

The magistrate ordered the prisoner to be brought to were the dead body was lying, in custody of Messrs. Armstrong and Griffin. On their return they deposed:

That they took the prisoner to Waggon Alley, where the deceased lay—Several persons were present. They could hardly persuade the boy to touch the body; he trembled exceedingly. Several persons touched the body, and he then drew his hand slightly over the body, and on his touching the wound with his finger, it spouted out blood quite fresh.

Nicholas Snyder.

Went to see the body—saw the prisoner touching the body, and the blood coming from the wound, his hand trembled like a leaf, and laid his hand on the body with great fear and very lightly. On the blood coming from the wound he almost fainted, and withdrew to get some water. He drew back several times to prevent touching the body. Several other persons touched it without effect.

Mr. Gough.

Saw the constables taking the boy to where the dead body lay. He then had curiosity to see them. He saw the boy touching the body, and on his touching the wound the first time the wound bled, and on the second time touching it the wound actually opened and bled afresh. Jack Lynch touched the body, and he did likewise three times, and no kind of alteration either on the body or wound.

The above are the depositions taken before me this day, 15th of September, 1804, Wm. DUNCAN.

[Since the above circumstances took place, the boy has confessed his guilt.]

This Lottery has been authorized by the Legislature of Virginia, for the laudable purpose of erecting a seminary of learning in or near the metropolis of this State. With this view it is contemplated to raise 20,000 dollars, and 2,500 dollars in addition, for defraying the expenses attendant on drawing the lottery. Citizens of the first respectability have been selected as trustees, and they have pledged themselves to use their utmost exertions to carry it into effect. The scheme has the advantage of giving to each adventurer's chance for some very large prizes, whilst the proportion of prizes to blanks, is so great as to invite the friends of the intended institution to participate in the lottery, with very little risk of their becoming losers. The treasurer of this State is to be appointed to receive the money for the tickets as they are sold, and to pay the amount of the prizes to fortunate adventurers. It is believed that the above considerations will induce a rapid sale of the tickets, and the drawing will commence as soon as a sufficient number shall be sold to authorize it—which it is believed will be on the second Monday in December next.

REWARD.

Ranaway from the Subscriber living in York District, State of South Carolina, about the 29th of July last, a handsome mulatto boy about sixteen or seventeen years old, and has a scar on his right cheek near to his eye, which is quite visible. He is trim made and a little inclining to be hairy; keeps his hair trimmed and longest round the edges of his face, which he curls. He has passed himself as a free man since he left me; and he probably may have procured counterfeit papers to shew himself free, sometimes telling he was a French barber, and it is believed he can speak some French, and at other times varying his story, and saying he was a shoe-maker, and will tell any story that he finds to suit his purpose. He was raised in Charleston. When last heard of he was near to Salisbury in North Carolina and said he was going to Richmond or Baltimore; and was taken up by a man and woman who was going that way in a chair, and had a lad horse which they permitted him to ride in the capacity of a waiting-man, which business he is accustomed to. This last circumstance I have heard since he was advertised in the Richmond papers. He is very sensible and cunning, and will make his escape if not watched if he is taken. He is fond of dress, if he can get good clothes, but is badly dressed, unless he has supplied himself since he left me, as he was taken shortly after he ran away, and by his address made his escape and left his baggage. Any person taking him and lodging him in any jail, so that I get him again, shall be entitled to the above reward.

ROBERT & JOHN GRAY

HAVE JUST RECEIVED

A large supply of Dr. Stoughton's GENUINE BITTERS,

THE happy effects, and superior efficacy of these bitters, can be testified by hundreds in Alexandria and its neighbourhood, during the prevailing sickness last summer. We believe that every person, who then persevered in regularly taking them, resisted the attacks of the fever. They brace the constitution, create appetite, assist digestion, and relieve the cholera; in short, in all complaints of the stomach and bowels they have been proved to be eminently efficacious. Hence, they resist malignant fevers, and are a preventive to the ague. A course of these bitters, begun now, may prove highly beneficial, as they will gradually prepare the system to undergo the danger of a febrile summer.

There are many counterfeits. Purchasers will please to observe that the genuine Stoughton's Bitters are sealed with the first letter of the Doctor's surname, and full directions pasted on each bottle. Tavern keepers and liquor stores, will find it to their advantage to use them, as from superior strength alone they may be considered to cost no more than the trash so often imposed upon them. They are also sold by Rapine, Conrad and Co. Capitol Hill, City of Washington; Mr. March, George Town, and Mr. A. Buck, Frederickburg. Also just received,

TRAVELS IN GREECE.

PROPOSALS,

FOR PUBLISHING BY SUBSCRIPTION, THE TRAVELS OF

Anacharsis the Younger, IN GREECE:

During the middle of the fourth Century, before the Christian Era,

With copious Notes and References.

BY

THE ABBE BARTHELEMY,

Keeper of the Medals in the Cabinet of the King of France, and Member of the Royal Academy of Inscriptions and Belles Lettres.

Translated from the French.

First American, from the fourth London edition, IN FOUR VOLUMES.

THE work now offered to the American reader exhibits a complete view of the antiquities, manners, customs, religious ceremonies, laws, arts, and literature of ancient Greece, at the period of its greatest splendour. A knowledge of these has hitherto been only attainable by a laborious perusal of writers who have been little solicitous to join entertainment with instruction. The Travels of Anacharsis, on the contrary, are so written, that the reader may frequently be induced to imagine he is pursuing a work of mere amusement, invention, and fancy; till his eyes glances to the bottom of the page, when he perceives there is scarcely a sentence, and not a single fact or circumstance, but is supported by the authority of some ancient author. The amazing number of these quotations may, perhaps at first sight, seem to have been unnecessary, and to have more the appearance of a parade of erudition, than to be of any real utility: but it is to be remembered that, at the same time that they must be highly acceptable to the man of real learning, by enabling him to refer immediately to the original author, they are extremely useful, nay, we may say, absolutely necessary, even to such readers as can never be supposed to have any intention to consult the authorities quoted; as they clearly shew that such an idea, or such a circumstance, is not merely a decoration or the offspring of the fancy of the author, but immediately taken from some ancient writer, and therefore perfectly accordant to the general scope and plan of the work.

TERMS.

I. The first Edition in America of Anacharsis Travels, will be comprised in four Vols octavo.
II. It shall be printed on handsome wove paper and a new type casting for the purpose. Each Volume will contain about 400 pages.
III. The price to Subscribers, per Vol. bound and lettered, will be 2 dollars; in boards, 1 dollar and 75 cents, to be paid on the delivery of each Volume.
The European Edition sells at 12 dollars per sett.

IV. There shall be a handsome Map of Greece given with the first Volume, to be executed by one of the best Engravers.

V. Those who obtain ten Subscribers and become responsible for the payment of the same shall receive one copy gratis. The work is now at Press, and shall be finished with all possible dispatch.

Subscriptions to the above work received at Robert & John Gray's book store, Alexandria.
